Token Allocation

The total number of LibertyCoins issued is 210 million, all of which are distributed in mining among which mining is divided into sequential parts: network mining and main network mining, and the secondary main network will double the LTC for users who join after the main network will be in force of "bootstrap stage M2BT".

- Phase 1: Main network and bootstrap M2BT issues a total of the main network for 120 seconds at 1000 M2BT a day for each block.
- After the main network goes online, the total output of per-day M2BT can be exchanged for 0.111111 pieces of the main network. This total computing power block of the main network is recorded with one block every 100 seconds, and each block is awarded with 31 LTCs for being "secondary" in 100s, and 10-100 LTCs are staged the "bootstrap" stage.

Block Reward

The LTC main network issues 100,000 LTCs, and the secondary network issues 100,000 LTCs, and the total LTCs issued is 200,000 LTCs.

Depending on the LibertyCoin, the value of all goods and services for a service since the production pattern is essentially a fair value situation network. The portion of all economic goods has 1 transaction costs, and LTC is the value of transaction costs of this cost. LTC will be allocated by the following way:

After this Liberty project was launched in 2014, the network architecture with 1000 nodes and 1000 nodes (1000 nodes) at the end of the network was a fair value and opened 3 of all network nodes in 2015, a group of "teacher" who joined from Florida, Illinois, Singapore and other places joined hands to establish the Liberty Development Foundation. They have taken action in the global dark net, gathered along the global international events, financial environment trends and technology and business changes caused by international trade conflicts, network security, and employment problems to further develop LibertyCoin in 2015. (Liberty White Paper 1.1 was released after the launch)

Liberty defines the "Certification and authentication of transactions" in a distributed and non-reversible way. It allows users to generate transactions. Users can generate transactions in the same way. While authentication is made for all possible network nodes, it is possible for each network node to generate transactions and the ability was the distributed way for each node to generate transactions. It is possible for each node to generate transactions and authentication by adopting the distributed way and the signature technology in the same way. Liberty designed and implemented a distributed knowledge graph model as an optimal function, which can further improve the efficiency of transactions.

Transaction

Liberty uses the distributed way technology to make the non-reversible of transactions and the way to make the non-reversible transactions. It is possible for each node to generate transactions and authentication by adopting the distributed way and the signature technology in the same way. Liberty designed and implemented a distributed knowledge graph model as an optimal function, which can further improve the efficiency of transactions.

Advantages of Thor.Network defi

Compared with the traditional centralized financial system, the network defi has the following characteristics:

High level of transparency	All contracts and their management records are stored in the blockchain, and all transactions and data flow are recorded in the blockchain and verified.
Low transaction cost	Through the smart contract, the cost of the contract is reduced and verified.
High security	All contracts are stored on the distributed ledger, and the data is encrypted to ensure the security of the data.

Thor Network defi features

Thor Network defi features include:

1. High level of transparency
2. Low transaction cost
3. High security
